Sustainability

The Uber Eats Music Hall is committed to reducing its environmental impact. Our ongoing efforts focus on conserving energy and water, recycling, using eco-friendly products, and helping to raise awareness around environmental issues.

Alongside the Uber Arena and the Barclays Arena in Hamburg, the Uber Eats Music Hall is proud to be one of the first arenas in Germany to receive the Greener Arena Certification – a significant milestone in our commitment to sustainability.

Here are just a few examples of the eco-friendly initiatives we've implemented:

- The green electricity supplied by our energy partner GASAG is generated from hydropower in Northern Europe and certified with the RenewablePlus eco-label by TÜV Rheinland.
- Heat recovery is achieved through our ventilation systems.
- CO₂ reduction: All areas are exclusively equipped with energy-efficient LED lighting.
- For our food offerings, we prioritize regional and seasonal ingredients to avoid unnecessary transportation routes.
- The Uber Eats Music Hall is optimally connected to local and long-distance public transportation.
- Cleaning: We use recyclable waste bags and containers, as well as EMIS-certified biodegradable cleaning agents.
- To irrigate the surrounding green areas, we utilize groundwater.

Sustainability

FAME FOREST

Artists who perform at the Uber Arena and the Uber Eats Music Hall are honored with their own tree, planted in our FAME FOREST. Over time, this initiative has grown into a flourishing forest the FAME FOREST.
